In one lustance a street was fille In one instance a street was filled with such an assortment of garbage that the heat of the sun produced a most unwelcome odor. So bad did the condition become, regardless of several telephone messages to the board of health informing them of the conditions, that the property owners "clubbed" together to hire a teamster to cart the little away.

This improved the condition of the streets, but did not after the frame of mind of the people compelled to suffer by the inefficient board of health. They believe that they have some rights left, in spite of the fact that the Kearnsridden board of health, has failed to recognize any of them. They still believe that while their taxes go to pay for the operation of city garbage wagons they should receive some benefit from them.

The boy was playing with other children in the street when a big machine with four persons seated in it appeared so suddenly and at such a rate of speed that the little fellow could not be warned of his danger by his playmates. The machine knocked him down and passed over him. The chauffeur stopped and picked the boy up in his arms. Mr. Van Cott heard his son cry out in fright and pain and, rushing outside, took the boy from the stranger's arms and into the machine and the whole party was soon out of sight. The police were notified, but as Mr. Van Cott could not furnish a complete description of any of the scorching party, the arrests which should and would have followed did not.
